WILLIAM LINCOLN SMITH

Born September 7, 1867 . . . Graduated from Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 1890, S.B. . . . Special courses at the University of Paris . . . Instructor at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 1891-1902 . . . Consulting engineer, 1892-1917 . . . Y.M.C.A., Educational Department, 1895 . . . Northeastern University, 1909-1937 . . . Head of the Electrical Engineering Department, 1917-1937 . . . Member: American Institute of Electrical Engineers; National Fire Protection Association; National Association of Electrical Inspectors, Secretary, 1911-1925; Electrical Council, Underwriters' Laboratories, Chicago, 1908- ; Association of Municipal Electrical Inspectors of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, Secretary, 1910- . . . Residence: Concord, Massachusetts, and South Orrington, Maine.

ALONG with the deepest depths of the business depression, came the enrollment of the Class of 1937 at Northeastern. Dissatisfaction and uncertainty hovered everywhere. America expressed its feelings at the polls in November by electing a Democrat to the Presidency. Spring brought with it the inauguration, the bank holiday, and still more uncertainty. Then followed the rapid formation of the Alphabet Agencies, each playing its part in the frantic attempts of the administration to restore order to the chaotic situation. Dust storms, floods, international difficulties—both natural and man-made obstacles—slowed the drive to normalcy, but the trend was unmistakable.

Now, in the spring of 1937, we find the economic cycle once more on an encouraging upswing, even though international relations seem to be entangled by intrigue and distrust. We who entered Northeastern at the lowest point of the depression, are entering industry at a period when indications point to a stable and a more enlightened era.

In the meantime, our University has been surging forward, in spite of the hindrances of external conditions. The year 1934 marked the granting of the first Bachelor of Science degrees. Changes in the curricula have been made periodically, to meet the ever-changing needs of industry and of the world. The Division C four-year plan and increased full-time facilities relieved the stress of student unemployment. The College of Liberal Arts came, to fulfill a recognized need. Accreditation by important agencies added to the repute of the University. Finally, in our senior year, came a welcome announcement—Northeastern will occupy the first of its new buildings in the fall of 1938!

In athletics, football arrived at Northeastern along with us. The undefeated team of 1935 consisted largely of our classmates. Within the short space of four years of varsity intercollegiate competition, the Husky elevens have built up an enviable reputation throughout the small colleges of the East. The basketball and baseball teams of the 1934-35 season earned powerful claims to the mythical New England championships, and the outdoor track team of 1935 won the coveted New England title. In the winter of 1936-37 a fine hockey team brought back to Northeastern its previous standing in the puck-chasing sport. From year to year Northeastern is forging to the top athletically.

In an effort to match the upswing in economic conditions, in academic and athletic achievement, the editors of the CAULDRON have attempted various innovations. We have tried to make this a yearbook in which Seniors are stressed. We have featured the activities of our classmates as much as possible, even in athletics, where our five-year course, with the resulting ineligibility of seniors, makes such a task almost hopeless.

At our request, four members of the faculty spent much time in making the selections for our favorite innovation—the Men of Distinction page. The purpose of the page is to give permanent recognition to the men in the Class of 1937 who, in the estimate of competent judges, have contributed most to the life of the University during their undergraduate years. To those members of the faculty who assisted us in the preparation of this feature, we give our thanks; to those Seniors who won places of distinction, we offer hearty congratulations.

The work of issuing the CAULDRON has been greatly increased and complicated by the new plan of distribution. But the job has been done, and the Board believes that the new distribution plan is a logical and desirable one, and should be continued. With the co-operation of the Department of Student Activities, and the support of the under classes through class advertisements and individual subscriptions, we have been able to produce a yearbook for which we hope we need to offer no apology.

The Board acknowledges its gratitude to the following individuals:

To Mr. Russell C. Knight, Planning Counselor, of Howard Wesson Company

To Mr. Dino G. Valz, of Andover Press

To all of the offices of the University which have contributed time and material; and especially to Miss Alexandra Graham, of the Department of Student Activities, who materially assisted the Business Manager in taking underclass orders

Above all, to Professor Everett C. Marston, whose inspiration, patience, and ideas created this book.

THE SEASON

Northeastern's 1936 football season will be remembered for the thrills provided by its flashy, open play rather than for its five wins and four losses. Coach Al McCoy's fundamentally well-grounded team was equipped with a new and daring offense that dazzled opponents and sent spectators home talking of triple-lateral-forward passes in which six men handled the ball.

Although beaten by Boston College 26-6, the Northeasterns kept the stands on edge with unexpected, gambling plays. For example, our warriors completed a forward pass behind their own goal—a play that carried out to the forty-yard line. When that formidable twelfth opponent, Nervousness, was overcome, Captain Hart's team scored on a series of passes, had another score nullified, and threatened to score again as the gun sounded. In the second half, when it was supposed to fold up, the team clicked on all cylinders and outplayed the potent Eagles.

Heavy Springfield eked out a 9-7 victory over Northeastern on a slippery gridiron; a field goal beat the superior-playing Red and Black. Back at Kent Street our gridsters upset the dope by out-sloshing a powerful St. Lawrence eleven in a torrential downpour, 13-6.

Against St. Anselm's great team, the Huskies were unable to score, losing to the hard-hitting Hawks by three pay-dirt scores. Then Connecticut State came to Kent Street boasting a four-touchdown victory over Brown. The determined Huskies of Northeastern forced two scores, but Connecticut managed to count on a brace of long runs to eke out a 14-13 triumph.

Victories over American International in the opener and Arnold in mid-season proved almost routine affairs. Smart coaching pepped up the Lowell Textile rout. Al McCoy sent his team on the field using an interchangeable nine and four man defensive line. The experiment was successful; Lowell was completely befuddled.

The Rhode Island Rams brightened up a Brookline night. The speedy, deceptive Mudge kept the outcome in complete doubt and Rhody was all set for a victory until Jay Hart booted the single, spectacular field goal of his career.

Northeastern's 1937 team will be captained by Frank Meehan, giant end from Belmont. Only three lettermen will be lost to a squad that was studded with sophomore stars.

Since the close of the football season it has been announced that Coach McCoy is to go to Colby next fall. Everyone who has come in contact with this energetic, keen student of football realizes the loss Husky sports will suffer. A later announcement was issued on the signing of James W. Dunn, backfield coach of the Harvard Junior Varsity, as our new coach of football and basketball—beginning next season.

It is with sincere regret that we bid Al McCoy, coach and builder of Northeastern's first four football teams, goodby and good luck. And it is with an open-hearted welcome that we greet our new coach, Jim Dunn, giving him our warm wishes for success in his new position.

THE SEASON

Pre-season forecasts marked the 1937 basketball squad as potentially great. Followers were disappointed, however, with the poor record of six victories and eleven defeats. Except for occasional flashes of smooth, coordinated play, the team could not find itself during the long season. Recurring injuries and schedule conflicts kept the players from top form.

Spotlighted as the season's greatest upset was the unexpected victory over Springfield College, suggested by many for the mythical New England intercollegiate championship. Offsetting this were losses by sizeable scores in both games with arch-enemy Rhode Island State.

The gloomy basketball outlook was brightened by an amazing freshman season. Against excellent opposition, the first year men made a record of eleven consecutive victories before being upset by Tufts freshmen by a four-point margin. Recovering from this surprise, the frosh finished their schedule with wins over Exeter Academy and Harvard freshmen for a season of one loss in fourteen games played.

Bright spots of the year were the performances of the two leaders. Merton Rice, captain of this year's team, continued his spectacular defense work and finished well up in the record of points scored in New England basketball. Captain-elect Frank Meehan, first Northeastern athlete chosen to lead three sports, improved during the season until he became a standout in the last games.

Loss of senior players for next year's squad is overshadowed by the resignation of Coach McCoy, successful leader and coach. Basketball rooters need not be discouraged, though, for the returning veterans, augmented by proven freshmen, should produce a successful season under the tutoring of able Coach Dunn.

THE SEASON

Throughout the winter athletic schedule, the hockey team kept Northeastern sports fans happy. Coach Gallagher's first Husky sextet, unimpressive before the opening of the season, roared through its contests to a final game tie for New England honors. Defeated by Boston College in the play-off, the Huskies dropped to third place.

Northeastern athletes choose fine leaders, for in this sport also the top notch players were the two captains. John Bialek, captain of the 1937 team, was the best offensive player on the ice. Evidence was the fact that he scored more points than any other college hockey player during this season. Captain-elect Karol Krystyan was outstanding as goalie. Recognizing his exceptional performance, several sports writers placed him on All-New England and All-Eastern collegiate teams along with the speedy-skating Bialek.

An important figure in Northeastern hockey affairs is new Coach Herb Gallagher. Captain of hockey in 1934, he played with a well-known amateur team during his senior year and after graduation continued as a player both in this country and in Europe. In 1935, he started his coaching career by helping to select and train the Austrian Olympic hockey team. Coach Gallagher's ability is shown by the accomplishments of his first team at Northeastern. Although the squad showed only average prospects, it set up one of the finest records in our history. As a result, many authorities credit Herb Gallagher with the finest hockey coaching of the year.

The (N) refers to the letter men of 1935-1936 season

THE SEASON

In spite of losing only three lettermen from last year's squad, the track team entered what appeared to be its second lean year since winning the New England title in 1935, for the three men who had left were Captain Jim Sandler, Alan Hakanson, and Chet Wolowicz—all consistent event winners and high scoring stars.

The relay team failed to win a race during the winter season, meeting teams which in every case seemed to be just a little bit better. In spite of the poor showing of the relay team and the remainder of the squad in the special winter meets against the outstanding performers in the country, there were two bright spots in the indoor season's record. These were the thrilling tie with Bates at 54 all, and the close win eked out over the University of Maine, 69 1-3-67 2-3, in the two dual meets of the season, both meets going into the very last event with the outcome still in doubt.

The outstanding single feat of the winter season was Sophomore Danny Miles' leap of six feet four-and-one-half inches in the high jump at the University of Maine meet, breaking the record set by Ex-Captain Jim Sandler, who has been spending a good deal of time coaching Miles. Miles gathered a first in the broad jump and a third in the hurdles to boost the team total by eleven points. Another star uncovered in the Maine meet was George Leck, who runs in the 600 and 1000 yard events. Although he has been competing in track for two years only, he showed his value by establishing a new record in the 1000-yard race.

To lanky Ray Henderson, however, goes credit for winning the most points. A first, a tie or first, and a second place in the Bates meet meant twelve points for the Huskies, and at the University of Maine, Ray garnered sixteen points with two firsts and two seconds in his specialties, the dashes and the hurdles.

Coach Parsons, Leck, Henderson, Birchall, Grant

George Leck in the middle distances, Hawk Zamparelli and Art Johnston in the mile and two-mile, and Charlie Canney in the weight events have been the other first-place winners, with Charlie Grant and Ralph Rollins adding to the team totals.

The prospects indicated by the thrilling wind-up of the indoor season in the two dual meets predict a more successful outdoor season. Dual outdoor meets with Colby and Springfield, a triangular meet with Boston College and New Hampshire, the relay carnival at Harvard, the New England Intercollegiates, and the I.C. 4A's form the outdoor schedule. Both Johnston and Zamparelli are at their best in outdoor running, and since the team has a good chance for firsts in a large share of the events, Colby and Springfield will find tough propositions on their hands when they tangle with the snarling Huskies. As for the New England title—the Red and Black will be right in the thick of things, making victories difficult for others.

The winter season brought to light several Freshman stars. Frank Mascianica broke the freshman record in the 600 yard run. George Shanker made a new mark in the low hurdles. Other first year notables include Gardner Holmes, Daniel Moody, and David Lockerby. All made good records and indicated better work for the future.

THE SEASON

Led by Sophomore Zamparelli and Captain Johnston, who set a remarkable record by finishing one-two in five consecutive meets, the team won two dual meets, lost two, and won from Tufts and M.I.T. in a three-cornered affair.

Unable to match strides with the team strength of Rhode Island in the New England Intercollegiates the team wound up in second place, although "Hawk" Zamparelli garnered the individual championship and Captain Johnston, bothered by a leg injury, still managed to finish in fourth place.

A technicality deprived N.U. of an excellent opportunity for an individual intercollegiate championship when Zamparelli was barred from the I.C.4A. meet in New York City. Thus Captain Johnston was the lone representative to participate in the I.C.4A's. This time, however, his leg injury had a more telling effect and allowed him no better than the fifty-seventh position.

Special praise must be reserved for the remainder of the team for its constant struggling against odds. William "Tremendous" Tatel, George Leck, and Ellsworth Higbee were the other lettermen for the season, consistently fighting their way into scoring position. Charles Grant and Russell Vedoe were other point winners for the team.

The Red and Black can look forward to the 1937 season with the "Hawk" captain while still in his third year. His running will be supplemented by newcomers from a strong freshman group who attracted much attention this year. The team will miss Johnston and the other retiring place winners; we regret their loss, but look to the 1937 season.

THE SEASON

The 1936 baseball season opened with a dour outlook. The conflict of co-operative work kept Captain Ed McNamara from contributing his slugging power for a large part of the season. The failure of Co-Captain Jim McCarthy to return to school struck a disabling blow at the pitching staff, already depleted by the ineligibility of Joe Chrusz, the only other pitcher with seasoned experience.

Depending entirely on a pitching staff of untried sophomores, Coach McCoy soon singled out "Iron Man" Gus Rook, who carried three-quarters of the pitching load. Under the circumstances, the record of five wins against eleven losses was not ungratifying. The wins came from the Cambridge Collegians, an unofficial M.I.T. team; Bates; Lowell Textile; and two especially gratifying victories from the Tufts Jumbos. The skyrocket of the season was in the Bates game, when the Huskies entered the eighth inning facing a six-run lead, scored eight runs in the eighth, and thereby took the game, eleven to nine.

The fine hitting of Captain McNamara; the stellar all-round play of Don Mackiernan, who has filled every position on the team during his three years of varsity participation; the play of outfielder Frank Meehan; and the fine pitching of Gus Rook—all were among the outstanding individual accomplishments.

The outlook for 1937 is more promising. The team has lost Captain McNamara, Don Mackiernan, George Bennett, Joe McCusker, and Stan Horzempa. But it has Co-Captain Rook in the pitching department and Co-Captain Meehan in the hitting department, plus a large squad of men who saw service last year, and promising material from an excellent freshman team which should help carry the team to a more imposing record in their tough schedule of twenty games.

THE SEASON

Going into their seventh year of intercollegiate competition, the Rifle Team, under the genial direction of Coach Ray Fennell, faced a schedule as arduous as any yet undertaken. Winning five consecutive meets after dropping four out of the first five, the team winds up the season on the right side of the ledger.

The Huskies were way off form in dropping their first encounter of the year to the splendid aggregation from M.I.T. The remaining three losses to New Hampshire, Rhode Island State, and Wentworth were all heartbreakers, N.U. losing by nine, fourteen and six points, respectively. However, with a victory over W.P.I. under their belt, the Riflemen picked up speed and in consecutive meets easily defeated Battery L of the 241st Coast Artillery, Boston College twice, Lowell Textile and W.P.I. again.

The individual scoring honors were shared by three men who just about alternated in taking top place in each event. Captain Maxwell Rosnov, John Chipman and Clayton Hunter were the mainstays of the team, with Garnsey, Sawyard, Davis, Grant, Stawicki, and Forbes all figuring strongly in the team scoring.

Prospects for next year are exceedingly bright as only two men, Chipman and Garnsey, become ineligible. With the rest of the team returning full strength, and with two cracker-jack freshman sharpshooters coming up from the yearling ranks, Coach Fennell is oozing confident predictions of a great year, and even discounting for his perpetual optimism, the outlook is fine.

Good Yearbooks Don't "Just Happen"

THEY may vary tremendously in size, design, and cost, but all successful yearbooks have one thing in common—they represent hours of careful planning and painstaking workmanship.

This volume is no exception. The staff has worked long and diligently in order to make it an interesting record of the class and school.

It has been our privilege to assist in the publication of the book, working in close association with the members of the board. We wish to take this opportunity to thank them for their co-operation and to congratulate them on the results of their labors.
